PUTRAJAYA: The Rakyat Digital initiative, led by the Ministry of Digital through MyDIGITAL Corporation, is launching a massive effort to enhance the digital literacy of Malaysians by offering various online courses for free.

Digital Minister Gobind Singh Deo said the initiative is a significant milestone in the country's journey towards becoming an advanced digital nation, in line with the country's goal of making digital capabilities and artificial intelligence (AI) the main drivers of economic growth and global competitiveness.

"Following the success of the AI untuk Rakyat programme, with over a million citizens participating in this programme within six months, all these users are now part of the Rakyat Digital initiative.

"Now, the Rakyat Digital initiative has expanded its offerings by providing more free courses," he said in a statement, Tuesday.
